

A ROMANTIC OPERA.

THE PRODUCTION OF "VICTOR, THE BLUE STOCKING" AT THE CAVE.

A Pretty Love Story Set to Charming Music—Handsome Costumes and Excellent Work Characterize the Fine Performance—A New French Production—Camerini, the Tenor, to Bring an Italian Company to America—“Fatinizta” at Schmauder’s.

“Victor, the Blue Stocking,” is a romantic opera with comedy attachments. It is not written solely for the purpose of setting a lot of jokes to jingling music, but has a story which abounds in tender sentiment. It does not depend on some grotesque or odd adventure or relation for its development, after the first act, it is a simple but charming love story put to music, that varies from the liveliest and most sparkling airs to the tenderest songs of love. It has more than the usual allotment of melodious numbers. There is a waltz song, a drinking song and a number that are particularly striking, but these do not amount to all of the choice bits. Some of the choruses are fine, and there is a song sung by Victor, the hero of the opera, expressive of his despair at losing his affianced, which is full of feeling and melody.

The libretto is not very finished or witty, but has plenty of laughable points in it, and is just suggestive enough in portions to be pleasant and spicy. While it was not freely gauged there were enough jokes and black and white references to brighten it up. Then the business offered several opportunities for comedy which were taken advantage of to the utmost by the company and left the audience in a ripple of laughter. With greater ease and familiarity with their roles on the part of the members of the cast there cannot fail to be great improvement in this way and when the work is given with the snap and dash which comes of entire freedom from hesitation it will prove immensely entertaining.

For a week or two the Cave will have new operas every week with one scarcely on the boards before another must be prepared, the work of the managers being remarkable.

To say that there was no hesitation would be saying too much, but on the other hand, while this hesitation and the slight awkwardness which characterized the opening of the exact business and lines marred the effect at times, there was a wonderful small amount of hitch in the performance.

The story of the opera is laid in Paris. Victor Dalmat, a handsome young man, a son of a famous letter-writer, is in love with Fanchette, a widow who is the mother of the Marquis de Palambro, who thinks he is wealthy Marguia de Palambro, who thinks he is the Marquis’ sister, Countess Celeste, a young beauty, is in love with Fanchette, as brother’s love daughter, recommends her as a teacher to make her to M. de Florac, a scapenope, in order to secure a position in the service of the Marquis. The Marquis has written a loyal ring which Vicor can wear, and a popular political bair and the Marquis is in danger of being put in the Bastille to torn in pieces by the mob, and his sister becomes strong singers and venders and Vicor becomes popular and brings popularity with the people and it brings everyone to a happy termination.

Coming to the individual scenes we can be no question that a conscientious and thorough degree of success marked the work of nearly every member of the cast.

Geo. W. Denham and Alice May had the best opportunity to take care of as the Marquis of Palambo, a self-satisfied, old, fat, and self-satisfied poet and Ulrica, a bouncing explosive circus girl. Denham worked a good deal of amusement out of his part, and Miss May made a characteristic Ulrica which was a decided success with the audience.

In a rather broad love-making scene the pair managed to keep the audience interestedly used.

Miss Denham was the Fanchette, the heroine of the opera, who loves Vicor, and she gave a spirited and clever treatment of the character. Her dancing, singing, drinking song secured an enthusiastic encore.

Miss Martha Porteous was the love-sick Countess, who should have been a success, but she was not up to the part of Vicor and was effective in her work.

Wolff, as the wayward nephew De Florac, was excellent, and the other parts were fairly well taken.

The opera was prettily put on and the costumes were handsome and picturesque. “Victor” promises to score an undoubted hit at Schneider’s Garden.

The mining market was decidedly dull this morning. There was very little trading.

Yavapai was a little stronger this morning at 30 cents bid. Some sales were made at 37 cents.

It is understood that at the regular meeting of the Granite Mountain Company, two weeks ago, the old board of directors was re-elected. The “non-resident” some of these gentlemen will not affect the election. It is possible, however, that some resident will succeed Mr. Polson as Treasurer.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Fair weather; variable winds; no decided change in temperature.

The Mayor, as Mrs. Malaprop would put it, is, "like Cerberus, three gentlemen at once."

If there is anything left for the Municipal Assembly to give away it will be left over for the next session.

The St. Louis people who couldn't get away for the summer had the earthquake all to themselves. Thus the law of compensation gets in its work.

The President will be accompanied on his western trip by several members of his Cabinet, but HIGGINS will stay behind in the interest of good taste.

The earthquake in St. Louis last night was probably nature's way of expressing indignation over the lies that are told about the weather in this city.

The Republican papers that are extracting comfort from the "Republican gains" in Kentucky have all the philosophy that they will need in this vain world.

The saloon-keepers of Boonville, Mo., have resolved to abolish the "growler" traffic. This is thought by some to be an attempt to annoy the Prohibitionists and other enemies of the saloons.

Mr. GEORGE GOULD denies that his father, JAY, is interested in an American-Chinese bank. The Chinese don't know what they have missed by failing to persuade Mr. GOULD to take stock in this new enterprise.

CHIEF-JUSTICE MIKE MCGRATH of Missouri yesterday completed his thirtieth year of life in office. It cannot be charged against him that at all time he has ever wantonly injured a rich railroad corporation.

It is reported from Berlin that Prince FERNAND starts for Bulgaria to-day to take the oath of office. Wise counselors would advise him to be satisfied with taking the oath and leave the uncertain office for somebody else to take.

AFTER the 15th of August the municipal street sprinkling will be in the hands of men who have fought fiercely and persistently against the new method. They will need close watching and strict discipline to secure the enforcement of their contracts.

The street-sprinkling contractors pleaded for delay in beginning their work on the ground that they had not expected that the contracts would be approved. This is a confession which places Statesman O'Malley in a very uncomfortable position.

The Globe-Democrat, which mildly approves Acting-Mayor ALLEN for signing the Bridge Terminal ordinance, does not censure Actual-Mayor FRANCIS for missing such an opportunity. The granting of this franchise has resulted in a certain kind of a love feast.

A TRIUMVIRATE of Mayors hath this merit in it, that the ignorant populace can never tell which thumbtack covereth the pea. And so divers franchise-grabbing interests can each have its whack at the executive signature, whereby the fraternity of boodlers and combiners is mightily strengthened.

MAYOR FRANCIS went a-fishing the day before the Merchants' Terminal bill was approved by one Acting Mayor. He is expected back from the seaside within a day or two after the Bridge and Tunnel bill has been signed by the other Acting Mayor who represents the great railroad benefactors of the country.

WHILE alleged "street readings" of thermometers in this city yesterday gave a maximum of 98 deg., the Signal Office thermometer, which is notoriously incorrect, reported a maximum of 92.8 deg. The true maximum was probably 90 deg., or 91 deg., which was the maximum at St. Louis.

The detective concern that was mentioned in this paper is a fraud. They sell worthless detective services to people in various parts of the country.

H. B.—The City of St. Louis has an area of 16,600 acres and its police force consists of a chief, 66 constables, 460 patrolmen, 16 emergency specials, 16 detectives and a chief of detectives.

THE Tribune says: "In the government of Prince FERNAND there is no room for such a man as a boodler, and of course his comprehension of the situation into which he has been born is not likely to be great. The manly spirit under which he was inaugurated and to which he gave utterance once or twice before he left will be of great service to him in the light of official experience, and that hereafter he will administer the affairs of the state with a frankness and directness that will be of great service to the public." THE Times says: "Before the passage of the state street reading act it was common practice for the railroads to charge the public for ships by means of a special rates or rates. These rates were not forbidden, but if the same rates were charged for a commodity based on the quantity shipped, there will be a revision of the same, which was one of the chief causes of complaints that led to the passing of the act."

BELLEVILLE.

Alderman Kretschmer Ejected From the Council Meeting—General News.

The City Council held a stormy session last evening. Alderman Fritz Kretschmer's constituency was the cause of the trouble, and the tempestuous meeting was not subsumed until Marshal Oster, acting under an order of the Mayor had ejected him from the Council Chamber. Mr. Kretschmer first manifested his disposition to make himself obnoxious while Alderman Bresler, Chairman of the Committee of Litigation submitted the committee's report on the case of the Comptoline Building for unauthorised occupying Spring street. The report had been referred to the Standing Senate Committee on Finance, and it was a fact that a decision in the city's favor had been reached by the Standing Senate Committee. The bill was the heaviest sufferers, losing 14, 14 and 18 respectively, while the declines on the general fund were about the same. The United States at 18%, do 4%, coupon, 18%; Pacific States at 18%, do 4%, coupon, 18%; Pacific Coast at 18%, do 4%, coupon, 18%; and the rest of the country at 18%. The market was held steady and at the close the market was active and weak at prices, the lowest of the day.
